ROAD MARKING

The FS Roadline standard specifies the performance for the road user of white and yellow road markings based on luminance(color), day-time visibility, night-time visibility and skid resistance combined with durability. The new specification also introduces the importance of wet-night visibility road markings. An important feature of Profiled Markings is an improved retro reflectivity in wet conditions. Profiled Markings thus offer safety benefits in poor weather and additional sensory perception at all times. We are focus on the same of the following kind of road marking.

- Reflection in day light or under road lighting
- 3 classes of performance Retro reflection ,under vehicle headlamp,illumination color.
- Skid Resistance.

EYE CAT INSTALLATION

In efforts to make the roads safer and at the same time address traffic problems, we also provide, the Eye Cat Installation service that has installed metal road studs individually called "cat's eye" on the lane dividers along Elliptical Road of the Country.

The purpose of installing cat's eye in the area is to properly designate vehicular lanes, avoid frequent changing of lanes and more importantly, prevent swerving believed to be the most common cause of accidents. "The putting in place of the cat's eye would ensure that the vehicles stay within their designated lanes, and would there curb the speed limit to 40 kilometers per hour, which is the maximum limit according to international & country rules.

So-called for its luminosity, cat's eye are installed three meters apart and will serve as lane dividers to oblige the drivers to stay on their lanes except when turning right to perpendicular roads.
